You know we didn't want to waste it; we. His voice became more serious as he continued. "I don't want to go off into a lot of personal anecdotes and reminiscences. That kind of thing is customary on an occasion such as this, but it would be trivial, and I wouldn't want my last speech as president of NASDO to be marked by trivia. The times do not permit such luxury. Instead, I want to talk about matters that are of global significance and which affect every individual alive on this planet, and indeed the generations yet to be born--assuming there will be future generations." He paused. "I want to talk about survival--the survival of the human species." He went down the hallway to the other bedroom. The door was ajar and he moved past it, calling softly. "Mama Dolores?". "Sure," Song said, peering along his pointed finger. "Just show me the damn thing and I'll immortalize. dispute that. It makes a palm tree look like a blade of grass and a man look like an ant.
